About the Summit

The aim of the Sustainable Food Summit is to address the major issues the food industry faces concerning sustainability and eco-labelling such as organic, fair trade, etc.

The second edition of this executive summit focused on sustainable supply chains, with key topics covering ethical partnerships, traceability, roundtables, distribution and marketing. Case studies were given of companies that have successfully and legitimately met the sustainability challenges.

Like previous events organised by Organic Monitor, it brought together key stake-holders in the food industry that include food manufacturers, ingredient & raw material suppliers, retailers & distributors, industry organisations & certification agencies, researchers, investors, etc.
